

Question 1 (1 point) ✓ Saved

Using upbeat images to downplay the negative messages of written text may be persuasive, but it is unethical.

- ☒ True
- ☐ False

Question 2 (1 point) ✓ Saved

Ethical decisions are always "black and white."

- ☐ True
- ☒ False

Question 3 (1 point) ✓ Saved

In advertising, false claims or suggestions are legally prohibited.

- ☒ True
- ☐ False

Question 4 (1 point) ✓ Saved

"Groupthink" is another way of referring to good teamwork.

- ☐ True
- ☒ False

Question 5 (1 point) ✓ Saved

Whistle-blowers usually are rewarded for going public with their company's unethical behavior.

- ☐ True
- ☒ False

Question 6 (1 point) ✓ Saved

Deliberate miscommunication is fairly common in the workplace.

- ☒ True
- ☐ False

Question 7 (1 point) ✓ Saved

Proprietary information is not the exclusive property of a company.

☒ True

☐ False

Question 8 (1 point) ✓ Saved

Plagiarism and copyright infringement are the same.

☐ True

☒ False

Question 9 (1 point) ✓ Saved

In a research report on her findings, a company researcher decides to omit results indicating health risks associated with a new cleaning product that has great potential for an international market. Which type of communication abuse best describes the actions of the researcher?

☐ failing to divulge proprietary information

☐ exploiting cultural differences

☐ withholding information people need for their jobs

☒ falsifying or fabricating data

Question 10 (1 point) ✓ Saved

Which of the following posts could be an example of an unethical use of social media?

☐ complaining about the bad service you experienced at a restaurant last night

☐ posting a picture of you and a friend at a restaurant's opening night

☒ letting others know that the word around town is that the owner of a restaurant abuses the workers there

☐ posting a picture of the latest item added to the menu

Question 11 (1 point) ✓ Saved

Which is an accurate statement about whistle-blowers?

- ☐ Few whistle-blowers regret their decision to go public.
- ☐ Whistle-blowing is a helpful strategy for career advancement.
- ☐ Negative consequences are rare for whistle-blowers
- ☒ Federal law provides universal protection to whistle-blowers.

Question 12 (1 point) ✓ Saved

Which statement most accurately describes the relationship between obligations, ideals, and consequences?

- ☒ All of these are reasonable criteria for ethical judgment.
- ☐ Ideals should generally outweigh consequences.
- ☐ Obligations are always the top priority.
- ☐ Obligations and ideals determine the consequences.

Question 13 (1 point) ✓ Saved

Which of the following is an example of a violation of libel laws?

- ☒ publishing false information about someone without causing any apparent harm to that person
- ☐ publishing truthful, negative information about someone, but it unintentionally results in damage to her career opportunities
- ☐ publishing any negative information about someone
- ☐ publishing truthful, negative information with the intention of causing harm and resulting in damage to someone's reputation

Question 14 (1 point) ✓ Saved

When leaving a job, which of the following is an ethical action?

- ☐ removing only hard-copy documents created on the job
- ☒ avoiding saying anything negative about your employer
- ☐ taking a digital copy of work samples you created on the job
- ☐ leaving a note for your coworkers describing the reasons that you are resigning