Topic: Computer programming language documentation and in-code comments

Genre: Research Report/Research Paper

Most of this research paper will contain the importance of code documentation and how it has developed into what it is today. I am not entirely sure as to how to even approach the work count, but I might change my topic to something easier to write a lot about. I am thinking about the importance of English as a global language or the ability of being bilingual.

The Tone of Countering:
